You chose farming for the love of it. With CountryChoice[®] from Nationwide, you can protect what you're most passionate about with coverage for your small farm.

Do you have enough coverage?

Many small-farm owners believe a homeowners insurance policy provides adequate coverage. But if you grow and sell a product or raise any kind of livestock, you probably have additional insurance needs. Consider a CountryChoice farm policy if you have a barn or outbuilding, farm equipment or livestock and receive revenue from farming or ranching. It's coverage for both your home and farm wrapped into one policy.

What CountryChoice[®] covers

Similar to a homeowners policy, the CountryChoice policy offers property and liability coverage. The CountryChoice policy also offers farm insurance coverages for:

- Loss to your harvested farm products
- Farm machinery and equipment such as tractors, garden tractors and power lawn mowers
- Farm interruption, including loss of income
- Products damaged while in transit

Optional liability coverages are available for:

- Additional residences rented to others
- Off-property recreational vehicle operation
- Office, professional, private school or studio use

To design a CountryChoice policy that's just right for your small farm or ranch, talk to a farm insurance agent.
